Cyclists take to TTC's first bike shelter

INSTALLED The day before the TTC's first official bike shelter was installed at St. Clair West station there were three ring-and-post parking spots. The day after, 20 bikes were parked in the new shelter.

Where those other bikes were parked before is anybody's guess, says Coun. Joe Mihevc, vice-chair of the Toronto Transit Commission. It's a symptom of the pent-up demand for amenities that make it easy to integrate cycling into transit trips.

The shelter is similar to those at GO Transit stations. Placed near the Wells Hill entrance, it was funded by the city's Clean and Beautiful initiative at a cost of about $35,000 and took a year to procure.

Come out and spend, Miller tells the press pack

WELCOME MAT Toronto Mayor David Miller is welcoming the world — and its money — to Toronto.

Miller invited the 2,000 or so foreign journalists covering the G8 and G20 summits to break away from their work in the media centre yesterday and spend money in the city.

The mayor says he's not concerned media will send home negative reports about barricades and security because he says the city has so much more to offer. However, he says he wishes Ottawa had included city officials more in the planning of the event because many people are staying away from downtown to avoid a hassle.

Miller is urging the G20 to throw its weight behind negotiations for a climate-change pact this year and to include cities in those talks. That's because even though cities are on the front line of environmental protection, they're not usually included in high-level talks.

Magna deal in jeopardy

A controversial multimillion-dollar plan to buy voting control of Magna International away from founder Frank Stronach, left, will be dead for good if regulators quash it before a shareholder vote next week, a lawyer for the auto parts maker said Thursday. "To say, 'Go away and try and do the process again' is Disney World ... what that might accomplish is the deal would go away and never be brought forward again," Sam Rickett told an Ontario Securities Commission hearing. Police examine a suspicious car Thursday in Toronto. A man was arrested near the G20 security zone after police say they found an array of weapons and hazardous material in the car.

Weapons arrest unrelated to G20 summit, police say

G20 Summit

A city already on edge ahead of the G20 summit was given another jolt Thursday when police pulled over a suspicious car downtown and discovered a surprising cargo that included a crossbow.

The 53-year-old driver was immediately arrested, the area sealed off as officers wearing hazardous material "moon suits" checked suspicious liquid in the vehicle.

"We have a crossbow, there's a chainsaw, baseball bat, sledge hammers," said Const. Hugh Smith.

"There's quite a various amount of items that, used by the wrong person at the wrong time, was enough that we made the arrest."

Police were keeping a close eye on a noisy but otherwise peaceful labour demonstration outside a hotel when the man drove by at the lunch hour in his modified silver Hyundai Elantra.

The car immediately drew suspicion, and officers pulled it over.

"Some of the weaponry was openly exposed," Smith said.

Police later said none of the items were illegal to have.

Also found were several jerry cans containing an unknown liquid.

Police cordoned off the area with yellow tape and part of the scene with red tape as fully equipped hazardous-materials experts in green and red boots and carrying oxygen tanks checked the liquid taken from the vehicle.

They later concluded the liquid was nothing out of the ordinary.

Police said the man was taken to a processing centre and charges would be pending, but said it appeared the incident was not related to this weekend's G20 summit.

Cops charge partner in G20-linked investigation

COURT The common-law wife of a man facing charges in a G20-linked case appeared briefly Thursday in a special court set up to deal with cases related to the G20 summit.

Kristen Peterson, 37, of Toronto, is charged with possession of an explosive device and possession of weapon for a dangerous purpose. Peterson's bail hearing was adjourned to Saturday, when her partner Byron Sonne is also to appear at the special court for a bail hearing.

Sonne, 37, faces several charges including possession of explosives, weapons dangerous, intimidating a justice system participant and mischief. Sonne was arrested Tuesday, the same day police raided a home in Forest Hill.

News in brief

TORONTO 18 Refusing to endorse a sentencing agreement the defence claims was made previously, a Superior Court judge has ordered a full hearing, including pre-sentence reports for two men convicted of participating in a terrorist group. Justice Fletcher Dawson remanded Steven Chand, 29, into custody with a two-day hearing set for Aug. 3-4 in a Brampton courtroom. Asad Ansari, 25, already out on bail, will have his full sentencing hearing Sept. 27. The convictions ended the so-called Toronto 18 homegrown terrorism case. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

U.K. firm issues travel risk advisory for summit locales

A U.K.-based security risk management firm has issued an advisory for Canada for the duration of the G8 and G20 summits in Huntsville and Toronto. AKE Ltd. cited the influx of protesters and police in the Toronto area, as well as tight security, in an advisory to its clients. THE CANADIAN PRESS

JACQUES BOISSINOT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A group of protesters chant and play drums Thursday in front of the Ontario legislature.

First Nations protesters march

DEMONSTRATION Several hundred First Nations protesters waved flags and pounded drums Thursday as they marched through downtown Toronto.

Shouting, "No G20 on stolen native land!" the marchers headed along Bay Street carrying placards, banners and Mohawk Nation flags as well as an upside-down Maple Leaf flag. Police with bicycles walked beside the marchers, using their bikes to keep people on the street.

The protesters, whose ranks grew by the hundreds as the day wore on, are hoping to draw attention to aboriginal issues from international media.

They are calling for control of land they claim as their own, and urging the government to investigate the disappearance of some 500 aboriginal women.

"We're here basically to bring attention to the impact that G8 and G20 meetings have, and the effect their social and economic policies are going to have on indigenous people, lands and resources," said Russell Diabo, spokesman for Defenders of the Land.

Police all a-Twitter

G20 Summit

The G8 and G20 summits will be patrolled by police on horses, on bikes, on rooftops and in helicopters. But there's a different kind of patrol online.

During both summits taking place this weekend, police will maintain a 24-hour-a-day presence on social media, getting out information on road closures, motorcades and trying to correct misconceptions about what is or isn't allowed.

Thursday, for example, the @G8G20ISUca account on Twitter was clarifying comments on which ramps and lanes onto major highways were closed.

Earlier in the week, the team of people behind the handle replied to one user's frustrated comment.

"@G8G20ISUca," it read, "Do us all a favour and let this be the LAST G8 meeting in Canada. Ever. Please."

The reply? "The Integrated Security Unit does not choose the venue or time."

The massive police presence required for the summits, and some of the public relations challenges that appeared during the Olympics, made summit security realize they needed a more proactive approach. Officials brought in Marco Battilana, who handled web communications for the Games, to oversee their plans.

"We're learning about the general atmosphere is w/ the public," he wrote in an interview over Twitter.

Health Canada issues recall for drop-side cribs

SAFETY Health Canada has issued a recall notice for drop-side cribs from five companies amid concerns that babies could fall out or become trapped, which could lead to suffocation or strangulation.

The agency says the drop-side hardware in the various crib models can break or become damaged, causing the drop-side to detach.

This could create a space between the crib and mattress where infants and toddlers could roll in and become trapped.

Neither Health Canada nor the companies involved in the recalls have received any reports of incidents or injuries related to the use of the cribs. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tough choice for leaders

World Cup showdowns vie with fixing global economy

In South Korea, they call it the 2-0 necktie. Head coach Huh Jung-moo wore it when the republic shut out Greece in its opening World Cup match.

Before the next game, President Lee Myung-Bak was wearing the red tie with black stripes during official meetings.

The president, a big soccer fan, might break out the tie at G20 meetings Saturday, when South Korea plays Uruguay.

Lee is just one of six leaders who has to balance the fate of the world's economy with the World Cup this weekend.

G20 Summit

Beatrice Fenelon of the Summit Management Office said organizers are very conscious of the tournament. "Rest assured. Leaders, delegates and media will be able to follow the game during the summits," she said.

So if you hear a terrified gasp from Angela Merkel at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre Sunday, chances are England just scored against her beloved team. If Germany strikes first, tensions could escalate between the chancellor and British Prime Minister David Cameron.

Their biggest fan

- When 400,000 of his countrymen took to the streets to watch South Korea's match against Nigeria Wednesday, President Lee Myung-Bak and the first lady stayed up for the 3:30 a.m. start.

Before she left Germany Thursday, Merkel told reporters she will focus on the summit, but her thoughts will be with the team Sunday.

The U.S. consulate was not able to say where the president will be watching the match against Ghana. His schedule has him en route to Toronto Saturday afternoon.

Likewise, Argentina President Cristina Fernandez de Kirchner and Mexican President Felipe Calderon will probably be busy when their teams square off Sunday.

Sherpas can't climb hurdles

Tough tasks lie ahead for summit leaders, sources say

Global leaders meeting for the next three days in Toronto will have to paper over gaping differences after discouraged negotiators in last-minute talks made little progress on how to repair the world's economy.

Sources tell The Canadian Press that the final hours of talks among G20 negotiators — known as "sherpas" because they do the heavy lifting before the summit — yielded little in the way of a substantive agreement.

Plans to map out the future of the fragile global economic recovery, financial regulation, international development and climate change were up in the air, sources said.

G20 Summit

In particular, U.S. President Barack Obama's negotiators are at loggerheads with Prime Minister Stephen Harper and the International Monetary Fund over how quickly budget deficits need to be brought under control.

Harper proposed moderate medium-term belt-tightening in a letter last week to G20 leaders, and those suggestions will likely make it to the final communique, sources said, even though many in the G20 say the proposals are either not strong enough or too weak.

"Negotiations are ongoing and they are on a positive track," Harper's communications director Dimitri Soudas wrote in an email.

Fiscal measures will take place at different paces according to circumstances, and hard targets for the G20 are still being negotiated, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty said Thursday.

Ashbridges Bay Maintenance and Storage Facility for New Streetcars and Leslie Street Connecting Track

Notice of Commencement of Transit Project Assessment Process

Background

The City of Toronto and the Toronto Transit Commission have ordered 204 new streetcars (Light Rail Vehicles) which will provide significant customer service improvements:

> Low-floor accessibility for people with disabilities, seniors, families with strollers, bicycle storage

> Almost double the passenger capacity of current streetcars

> Multiple doors and a proof of payment system to increase the speed of boarding and exiting

> Design enhancements to reduce noise and vibration

The Project

A new Maintenance and Storage Facility is required to support the new streetcars which will begin to replace the current fleet in 2013. One hundred of the 204 new streetcars will be stored at the Ashbridges Bay site, located at the southeast corner of Lake Shore Boulevard East and Leslie Street. Connection tracks to the Facility will be constructed on Leslie Street from Commissioners Street to Queen Street as pictured in the map. Background details are available at: www.toronto.ca/involved/projects/lrv

Leslie Street Connection Route

The Toronto Transit Commission (on June 2) and Toronto City Council (on June 9) approved Leslie Street as the connecting route for the new streetcars from Queen Street to the future Ashbridges Bay Facility. Although new vehicle and track design technology is expected to reduce noise and vibration compared to existing streetcars, TTC will be conducting specific noise and vibration investigations for potentially affected properties on Leslie Street. Mitigation measures will be implemented where required. Furthermore, TTC will be undertaking consultation regarding potential streetscape upgrades on the Leslie Street connection route.

The Transit Project Assessment (TPA) Process

The environmental impact of the Ashbridges Bay LRV Maintenance and Storage Facility and tracks on Leslie Street from Queen Street to Commissioners Street will be assessed in accordance with the TPA Process as prescribed in Ontario Regulation 231/08, Transit Projects and Greater Toronto Transportation Authority Undertakings (2008). As part of the TPA Process, an Environmental Project Report is being prepared. A public Notice of Study Completion will be issued within 120 days, at which time the Environmental Project Report will be completed and posted publicly for a 30 day review period.

Conrad Black's fraud convictions set aside

COURT A U.S. court ruling could lift some of the tarnish from former media baron Conrad Black's name, but is unlikely to lead to his exoneration and release from prison.

The U.S. Supreme court set aside three of Black's convictions of mail fraud and sent them back to a lower court on the basis that a law used to convict Black of fraud — and others of white-collar crimes — was too broad.

It has left ultimate resolution of Black's case to an appeals court, which means his fraud convictions still stand until dealt with there.

Black is likely to gain some satisfaction from the ruling, but the fraud convictions are the least of his worries, said Chicago lawyer Andrew Stoltmann

Conrad Black

— a fourth conviction for obstruction of justice will keep him behind bars.

"I don't think he's going anywhere any time soon," Stoltmann said. "The fact that he's convicted on the obstruction of justice charge is a horribly bad fact for him. I think he's going to get some time shaved off of his sentence but the entire conviction will not be overturned."

The Black ruling was handed down alongside a ruling on former Enron CEO Jeffrey Skilling that found fault with the application of the federal "honest services" fraud law.

'Rocco's army' driving buzz

Online marketing crafts positive image of candidate, analysis finds

Rocco Rossi is the king of social media, but a pauper in the polls.

A Northstar Research Partners analysis of how often and how positively Toronto's mayoral candidates get mentioned online — measured over a period of six weeks — found Rossi got the best buzz, with 28 per cent of the chatter about him considered positive.

Etobicoke Coun. Rob Ford got more overall mentions during the May 1 to June 11 period, but the polarizing figure was as likely to be scorned as applauded.

So why is Rossi, a former political fundraiser and executive in the non-profit sector, a darling on Twitter, Facebook, YouTube and other such sites, while two recent opinion polls put him at only 10 and 15 per cent of decided support — well behind Ford and George Smitherman?

Because he has an army of online supporters, many from the marketing world, posting comments and shaping the online debate to generate positive word-of-mouth, says Patrick Gladney, Northstar's director of social media.

"Rossi's aggressive online marketing is driving positive buzz," Gladney said.

"He has a team of people who are the architects of his image online ... They are inflating the positive impressions of him."
Patrick Gladney, Northstar Research Partners

"He has a team of people who are the architects of his image online, called 'Rocco's army.' If anything, they are inflating the positive impressions of him.

Rocco Rossi

"As we get closer in, I would expect more of the public to enter the conversation, perhaps giving a more accurate reflection of how people feel towards the candidates — masking the impact of having a social-media-savvy campaign team."

Sachin Aggarwal, Rossi's campaign manager, makes no apologies for the full-court press.

"We know that people get a huge amount of their media from online and informal sources online, so we are trying to drive as much 'earned' media as we can," he said.

Alleged cop impersonator arrested

CRIME A 55-year-old Brampton man has been arrested for allegedly impersonating a police officer.

Provincial police say a driver was stopped Tuesday on Highway 410 after being approached by a car with a dashboard-mounted flashing blue light.

The driver approached the stopped vehicle and identified himself as a police officer, then asked the driver for licence and permits.

That driver was then given a verbal warning about a lane change.

A real provincial police officer on patrol saw both vehicles by the side of the highway and stopped to investigate.

Noel Nacpil is charged with impersonating a police officer and was released pending a court appearance July 26.

The charges of fraud, perjury and obstruction of justice relate to 12 parents whose "custody and access to their children may have been affected," Det. Paul Vibert said Thursday. Earlier this year, police laid seven charges against Gregory Carter in connection to three complainants.

On Tuesday, Carter pleaded guilty to professional misconduct before the College of Psychologists.

News in brief

ALBERTA The final report card on Alberta's 2009-10 budget reveals a bottom line that was once blood-red in deficit ink but is now a much paler shade of pink. Alberta's deficit for the last fiscal year will be $1 billion — almost one-fifth of the originally forecast $4.7 billion, Finance Minister Ted Morton said Thursday. Higher revenue from oilsands royalties and corporate income tax overcame collapsing natural gas prices to shrink what had been predicted would be a deep deficit hole, he said. It's the first time oilsands money took the lead over natural gas revenue as the province's biggest cash cow.

Mixed reaction for Chinese president

VISIT Gov. Gen. Michaëlle Jean greeted Chinese President Hu Jintao at Rideau Hall Thursday, telling him such visits reinforce the two countries' "enduring friendship."

But as Jean and husband Jean-Daniel Lafond met Hu in the stately mansion's canvas-walled tent room, competing demonstrations raged outside the gates.

Hu Jintao

"Your visit to our country and our upcoming visit to yours show the extent of the enduring friendship that has existed between Canada and China for many years," said Jean, who departs on a six-day China trip next Wednesday.

Hundreds of Hu supporters, reportedly recruited from around the region by Chinese officials, lined Sussex Drive in front of the GG's sprawling estate, waving flags and banging drums and cymbals.

Directly across the road, protesters connected to the Falun Gong spiritual movement raised banners decrying human rights abuses in China.

Hu spoke through an interpreter about the important bilateral relationship between Canada and China, saying it had helped to create stability and prosperity in the Asia-Pacific region and beyond.

Hu arrived in Canada Wednesday for a state visit aimed at putting cantankerous relations between the two countries solidly behind them.

The Chinese leader was being feted with a state lunch ahead of this week's G20 summit in Toronto.

Oxfam activists pose for a photograph as G8 leaders Thursday in Huntsville. Eight leaders will take part in the G8 summit at the Deerhurst Resort in Huntsville over the next few days.

Ready, Huntsville?

The Obama muffins are outselling the Harper maple lattes and two ratty-looking flags have been replaced on the eve of the G8 summit.

Ontario's cottage country is ready to host the world.

Despite the powerful guests hitting town Friday, life along the picturesque main street of Huntsville, remains largely uninterrupted, even by the scores of police officers who have flooded the area.

Potted plants and Canadian flags line the street and the day before the meeting of international leaders, there are very few finishing touches left.

"We're there," said Mayor Claude Doughty. "We're ready."

The affable mayor said he noticed "two old flags on the train station that I asked to have changed within the next 20 minutes."

"Sleep, I've found, is overrated."
Claude Doughty, Huntsville mayor

"I'm sure they were," he said. "I drive around a lot looking at details and there wasn't much left to do, there really wasn't."

In addition to preparing his town to host the world Doughty also spent a "couple hundred hours" crafting wooden posts for a spiral staircase in one of the summit buildings.

"Sleep, I've found, is overrated," he said. "I'll get caught up in my next life, I guess."

In Toronto, security fencing and a heavy police presence for the G20 summit have caused much consternation and led residents to dub it "Fortress Toronto."

In Huntsville, the site where world leaders will meet Friday is far away from the downtown, so life goes on.

Irving Oil has second thoughts about tidal power

Irving Oil has decided to halt its involvement in tidal power research in the Bay of Fundy over concerns about the viability of the technology. New Brunswick Energy Minister Jack Keir said until there's technology that will allow for commercialized production of power from the tides, it will be difficult to get large companies involved. Tornado's fury robs 50 families of homes

Close to 50 families lost their homes in a severe storm that sent a tornado ripping through Midland on Georgian Bay.

Mayor James Downer says the families have been taken in by friends and relatives, while the community continues to be in a state of emergency.

"This situation is very grave, but out of it came some good," Downer said.

"It holds your community together. It brings your neighbours in. And it shows you what kind of people we work with."

Police blocked the main thoroughfare where most of the damage occurred, but locals slipped past the blockades to get a peek at the destruction.

"Yesterday, I had a place to live. Today, I have to move"
Trailer park resident Ian Ferguson

Trees that were slammed against hydro poles lay splintered.

A transport truck trailer was flipped on its side. The roof of a shed was wrapped around the top of a tree.

Trailer park resident Ian Ferguson thought it was just another passing storm, until the rising winds made him bolt toward his bathroom for cover.

Before he could get there something slammed into his trailer.

He stumbled outside and realized how fortunate he had been. Two doors down, a trailer was flipped on its side.

"I'm thankful," Ferguson said.

"I walked out of there alive. The person next to me could have been dead."

He added: "I only have the clothes I'm wearing.

"Let's face it, yesterday I had a place to live. Today, I have to move."

More than 8,000 people were without power.

Canada's top soldier hails new U.S. Afghan boss

WAR An abrupt change in American military leadership in Afghanistan isn't likely to create a problem for Canada's NATO mission, officials say.

Local political leaders, however, say it's critical celebrated Iraq commander Gen. David Petraeus, the incoming head of the NATO mission, press ahead with minimizing civilian casualties to maintain public support for NATO.

U.S. President Barack Obama accepted Gen. Stanley McChrystal's resignation Wednesday in the wake of disparaging comments he and his top aides made about Obama and his team.

Obama named Petraeus as McChrystal's replacement.

Gen. Walt Natynczyk, Canada's chief of defence staff, calls Petraeus a "soldier's soldier."

Natynczyk said Petraeus will do a good job.

"He will lead NATO forces with great skill, courage and determination. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian astronaut says she's Earth-bound

One of Canada's best-known astronauts is getting ready to hang up her spacesuit after a milestone-studded career that featured two memorable trips to space.

Julie Payette became the first Canadian to visit the International Space Station in 1999 and, a decade later, participated in a unique moment where two Canadians met in space for the first time.

But the Quebec native says she doesn't figure among the astronauts the Canadian Space Agency is looking at for future flights.

When asked if there were any plans for a return to space, Payette said: "Not according to the Canadian Space Agency."

"The Canadian Space Agency doesn't have any plans for me," she added.

CSA president Steve MacLean would not comment on whether any other jobs with the space agency were being offered to Payette, saying only that options were being discussed.

Julie Payette

Canada's two newest astronauts — David Saint-Jacques and Jeremy Hansen — are continuing their training, but are not expected to blast off for several years.

Astronaut Chris Hadfield has also been tapped for a future space flight.

Payette, 46 with two children, also said she was "way too young to retire."

"I'm looking at the possibilities and there's plenty out there so we will see what will happen," she added. The Montreal-born Payette ruled out a future in the political arena, pointing out that one of her old colleagues already had a monopoly on that career path.

"Marc Garneau is out there, we have one in politics," she said, referring to the astronaut-turned-MP.

Payette made her comments earlier this week in an interview from Houston as she prepared to receive an Exceptional Service Award from NASA.

On its website, NASA says the medal is awarded for "significant, sustained performance characterized by unusual initiative or creative ability."

Premier calls spy chief's comments 'troubling'

Nova Scotia's premier wants the head of Canada's spy agency to explain his remarks about the influence of foreign governments, even though Dick Fadden backed away from his original comments.

Outside his government's weekly cabinet meeting Thursday, Darrell Dexter said he read Fadden's comments in media reports and felt they had a "xenophobic feel."

He said the comments were "deeply troubling" because they questioned the loyalty of Canadian politicians.

Darrell Dexter

"I just think they are extraordinarily regrettable and there needs to be a full explanation as to why they were made in the first place," said Dexter.

Fadden, director of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, said in an interview with CBC-TV that he was in the process of warning at least two provinces, through the Privy Council Office, that members of their cabinets are under the influence of foreign governments.

But in a statement issued Wednesday, Fadden appeared to backpedal on what he was saying. He said CSIS had not informed the Privy Council of the cases mentioned in the interview and had not deemed them of "sufficient concern" to inform provincial authorities.

Queen preps for whirlwind trip

VISIT The oldest reigning monarch in British history (although still five years shy of the longest reign, which is held by her great, great-grandmother Queen Victoria) starts her tour Monday in Halifax helping celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Canadian navy.

By the time matters wrap up July 6 in Toronto, the Queen will have visited the very 21st-century makers of the BlackBerry in Waterloo, and a state-of-the-art, 3-D film and TV production complex.

In between, she will be delivering a stone from the meadows of Runnymede, locale of the 1215 signing of the Magna Carta, to the construction site of the new Canadian Museum of Human Rights in Winnipeg.

She will take in Sunday church service in Toronto and spend that afternoon at the Woodbine race track for the 150th annual running of the Queen's Plate.

'Blood everywhere'

Partiers hit by high-speed train on Spanish coast

The last thing they heard was the piercing whistle of an oncoming train.

Moments later, dozens of mostly Latin American immigrants who crossed the tracks instead of using an underground passageway to reach a beach party in a seaside resort were dead or injured, their body parts strewn among the rails.

The express train that barrelled through the station in northeastern Spain plowed into a group of young men and women that included Ecuadoreans, Chileans, Colombians and Bolivians — leaving 13 people dead, injuring 14 and turning a night of celebration into carnage.

Spain's deadliest train accident since 2003 took place during a nationwide ritual on the longest day of the year called Noche de San Juan, or the night of St. John.

"The euphoria of getting off the train immediately became screams."
Marcelo Cardona

The crowd got off a commuter train in the beach resort of Castelldefels, a 20-minute train ride outside of Barcelona, shortly before midnight Wednesday. Many jammed an underpass leading to the beach, but about 30 others climbed down from the platform and tried to scurry across the tracks, witnesses said.

Seconds later, a long-distance train that does not stop at the station crashed into the youths at high speed as its drivers sounded the whistle.

Marcelo Cardona, who was on the train, said everyone aboard had been looking forward to dancing around a bonfire on the Mediterranean shore.

"The euphoria of getting off the train immediately became screams. There were people screaming, 'My daughter! My sister!'" said Cardona, a 34-year-old Bolivian. He said he saw "mutilated people, blood everywhere, blood on the platform." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hitting the reset button

Obama, Medvedev praise improvement in U.S.-Russian relations

U.S. President Barack Obama declared Thursday that he and Russian President Dmitry Medvedev have "succeeded in resetting" the relationship between the former Cold War adversaries that had dipped to a dangerous low in recent years.

Obama directly acknowledged differences in some areas, such as Moscow's tensions with neighbouring Georgia, but said "we addressed those differences candidly." And he announced the U.S. and Russia had agreed to expand co-operation on intelligence and the counterterror fight and worked on strengthening economic ties between the nations.

Obama gave Russia perhaps the biggest gift it could have wanted from the meetings: An unqualified, hearty plug for Moscow's ascension to the World Trade Organization. Russia has long wanted membership but U.S. support in the past has come with conditions.

CHARLES DHARAPAK/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Russian President Dmitry Medvedev and U.S. President Barack Obama make an unscheduled visit to Ray's Hell Burger Thursday in Arlington, Va.

"Russia belongs in the WTO," Obama said as the two leaders stood side-by-side in the East Room after several hours of meetings — including an impromptu trip to a nearby D.C.-area hamburger joint for lunch.

The leaders faced questions about the U.S.-led Afghanistan war, and Obama promised the U.S. will "not miss a beat" because of the change in military command he ordered Wednesday.

Obama accepted Gen. Stanley McChrystal's resignation and replaced him with his direct boss, Gen. David Petraeus.

Medvedev seemed reluctant to wade into the topic, recalling the ultimately disastrous Soviet invasion of Afghanistan in 1979.

"I try not to give pieces of advice that cannot be fulfilled," Medvedev said. "This is a very hard topic, a very difficult one."

Scientists discover a personal touch

STUDY Scientists are finding that how something feels to a person can affect how he or she acts.

In one experiment, for example, 86 people took part in negotiations over a new car with a sticker price of $16,500.

Some were seated on hard wooden chairs. Others had comfy padded seats.

After their first offers were rejected, the participants made a second proposal for the car.

Note to car dealers:

- People on stiff wooden chairs took a hard line in the deal, raising their offered price by $896.50.
- But the relaxed folks in soft chairs were willing to spend an extra $1,243.60.

The hardness, the researchers concluded, produced strictness and rigidity in the negotiation.

"We're not just a brain in a jar, our body is fundamentally tied to our understanding of the world," said Joshua M. Ackerman of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a co-author of the study.

Ackerman said he was studying how people use their senses and it seemed like research on touch was underdeveloped.

The chair experiment was one of a series of tests he and colleagues did showing the sense of touch can have a significant impact on people's reactions, even though they may not realize it.

Hamas politicians expelled from Israel

Israel's decision to expel four Hamas politicians from Jerusalem threatened to set off a new crisis over the disputed city and could hinder U.S. efforts to restart peace talks.

The expulsions of the three Palestinian lawmakers and a former cabinet minister could start as early as Friday. Israel has not said where they would be sent, but the West Bank is a possible destination.

Israel revoked their Jerusalem residency rights in 2006 and arrested them because they belong to Hamas, the Islamic militant group that controls the Gaza Strip and has carried out scores of deadly attacks against Israelis. The expulsion orders were delayed because the men have been in prison until recently.

Israel has stripped thousands of Palestinians of their residency rights in east Jerusalem since capturing and annexing the area in the 1967 Mideast War. However, human rights activists said Israel has never before stripped Palestinians of Jerusalem residency because of their political affiliation.

"This is a very dangerous precedent," Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas said. "We won't accept it. We won't allow it. We won't just overlook it." He said the Israeli government was creating "the biggest obstacles yet on the path to peace."

Women may not need to bother finding a husband soon.

A Washington, D.C., hospital has taken sperm donations one step further. It is allowing women to select sperm donors according to their lifestyle.

"Most sperm banks allow customers to search for donors according to race and ethnicity," said Dr. Michelle Ottey, laboratory director at Fairfax Cryobank. "But people looking for a sperm donor look for a whole person, not just appearance."

Now Fairfax Cryobank, one of the U.S.'s largest sperm banks, has introduced a new search tool that features not just vital details, but categories ranging from religion to sports.

Users can decide whether they want a donor who likes to cook or paint, prefers fish as pets, wants to help the environment, likes to help people, and everything in between.

After selecting a donor at Fairfax Cryobank's website, customers can simply click on a button to order the sperm.

Bank tax misses point: Flaherty

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says countries calling for a global bank tax are not focusing on the most fundamental issues in financial reform.

"Is there going to be a global bank tax? No."
Jim Flaherty

He said Thursday the countries that used taxpayer money to bail out their banks, like the U.K. and the United States, are those calling for the tax.

But Canada and many other countries whose financial sectors were not bailed out by public money oppose the idea.

"Is there going to be a global bank tax? No," Flaherty told a news conference before delivering a speech to the Toronto Board of Trade.

"Why isn't there going to be a bank tax? Because the majority of countries in the G20 don't want it."

Flaherty said Canada already taxes its banks quite heavily and there is no need for a punitive tax in this country. That would take away funds from banks' ability to lend at a time when lending is crucial to help boost the recovery.

Canada has proposed an alternative capital protection scheme that is still being discussed in the international community.

Human element behind probe

The long-awaited release of the government's Air India 182 report held little solace for the families of the 280 Canadians and 49 others who died over the Irish Sea June 23, 1985. Sixteen years before 9/11, it was at the time the deadliest terrorist attack in North American history, even if then-prime minister Brian Mulroney chose to direct his condolences to the government of India.

I know a little about this case because I lived it. In fact, it directly altered the course of my life. My father was a lead RCMP investigator on the simultaneous Tokyo Narita Airport bombing, which killed two baggage handlers. Had CP Air 003 not landed 14 minutes early, there would have been many more dead Canadians off the coast of Japan. While he's never specifically told me it was the case, I'm fairly certain the toll the investigation took on my dad convinced him to ultimately take retirement five years earlier than he would have — meaning we had to move again.

"But remember, they are both staffed with humans, people who work hard and succeed at protecting lives in obscurity, often at great personal cost."

While the recent final report on Air India rightfully placed blame on CSIS and the RCMP for failing to prevent both disasters, it's worth noting there were many fine investigators, including my father, who helped produce the only criminal conviction in either case — proving in court in 1991 that Inderjit Singh Reyat built the bomb that blew apart Japanese bag handlers Hideo Asano and Hideharu Koda.

But in a country where many dismissed Air India 182 as an "Indian" tragedy, Narita, with its much smaller body count, would never get much media play in Canada.

It's long been suspected, but never proven, that Reyat was involved with the Air India bomb as well, perhaps something lost in the inexcusable disconnect between the then-new intelligence establishment and the national police force. CSIS had only been created less than a year earlier, virtually all its staff transplants from the old RCMP Security Service.

A retired RCMP and CSIS person once told me that despite the shared roots, there were still areas of distrust between the two agencies. Why is anybody's guess. Clannish mentality permeates everything, from the highest levels of global power to the world of pin collecting.

There's no question the flaws of the RCMP and CSIS were, and are, deserving of criticism.

But remember, they are both staffed with humans, people who work hard and succeed at protecting lives in obscurity, often at great personal cost — and only get attention when they screw up.

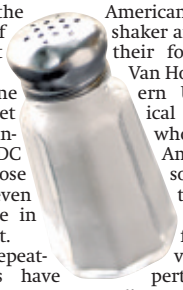
Americans eat too much salt: Report

Most U.S. adults should eat less than five millilitres (a teaspoon) of salt each day, but a new U.S. government report says just one in 18 meet that goal.

"This is not good news," said Janelle Peralez Gunn of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, lead author of a new study released Thursday.

Health officials currently say no adult should eat more than 5 ml (1 tsp) of salt each day. They go on to advise that 70 per cent of adults — including people with high blood pressure, all African-Americans and everyone older than 40 — should actually limit their salt intake to a more restrictive 3 ml (⅔ tsp), or 1,500 milligrams.

Sodium increases the risk of high blood pressure, which is the major cause of heart disease and stroke. Salt — or sodium chloride — is the main source of sodium for most people.



Overall, only one in 10 adults meet the teaspoon standard, said the CDC study. But for those who should be even stingier, only one in 18 manage to do it.

The research repeated what others have found — that the vast majority of dietary salt comes from processed and restaurant foods. And it concluded that salt was most commonly found in cold cuts and other meats, and in baked goods and other items counted as grain-based products.

"It's not a matter of Americans taking a salt shaker and adding salt to their food," said Linda Van Horn, a Northwestern University medical school professor who chairs the American Heart Association's Nutrition Committee.

In Canada, a federally convened panel of experts, known as the Sodium Working Group, is expected to bring down its recommendations next month for voluntary sodium-reduction targets in the food industry. The 25-member panel, chaired by Health Canada, includes representatives from food manufacturing and the food service industry, health-focused organizations, scientists, consumer groups and government. The initial aim is to slash Canadians' average daily sodium intake by about a third by 2016.

Salt reduction has become a recent focus of public health campaigns. New York City, the heart association and nearly three dozen other groups have been trying to persuade food manufacturers and chain restaurants to reduce salt content by more than 50 per cent over the next 10 years.

Bosh's replacement?

Raptors select six-foot-10 Ed Davis with first pick in draft

The Toronto Raptors selected University of North Carolina forward Ed Davis with the 13th pick in the NBA draft Thursday, a replacement perhaps for all-star Chris Bosh and the first piece of an uncertain roster puzzle in an off-season marked by questions.

The six-foot-10, 225-pound Davis led the Tar Heels in rebounding, with 9.6 per game, blocked shots (2.8), and was second in scoring (13.4) in his sophomore season at North Carolina, but suffered a season-ending injury Feb. 10 when he broke a bone in his left wrist.

The 21-year-old, who strode up on the stage at the Theatre at Madison Square Garden in New York dressed in a charcoal grey suit, was asked what he knew about his new Canadian home. He answered: "My favourite player Chris Bosh plays there."

Maybe not for long. Bosh is set to become a free agent July 1, and hasn't so much as hinted at what his future plans are.

Raptors president and GM Bryan Colangelo said earlier this week that with so many questions surrounding his roster, he planned to take the best player on the board rather than necessarily pick a replacement for Bosh. Still, the similarities to Bosh are obvious, including their size.

Davis, the son of former NBAer Terry Davis, is known for his rebounding at both ends of the floor, and uses his length to block shots. He was leading the ACC in field goal percentage (.578) and blocked shots, and was second in rebounding and 15th in scoring when his wrist injury ended his season.

Lineup change sparks Jays in win over Cardinals

MLB RESULTS

Cardinals 0 Blue Jays 5

MLB Vernon Wells drove in three runs with his 17th and 18th home runs of season as a lineup shuffle sparked the dormant Toronto Blue Jays offence in a 5-0 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Manager Cito Gaston dropped Aaron Hill from the two spot in the lineup and Adam Lind from the three hole to the fifth and sixth spots, while bumping up Alex Gonzalez and Jose Bautista to replace them.

Lind responded to the change with a first-inning homer that followed a two-run blast by Wells as the Blue Jays (39-34) salvaged one win from the three-game interleague series before 12,392 at Rogers Centre. Hill was 1-for-4.

The five runs were plenty for Brandon Morrow (5-5), who held the Cardinals (40-32) to five hits and one walk over eight innings while striking out eight.

Adam Wainwright (10-5) allowed six hits, including three home runs, and five runs, four earned, in four innings.

Hill and Lind have batted second and third this season and last, but Gaston, who usually favours a set lineup, thought it was time for a change.

"We'll try it and see what happens," said Gaston. "I don't know if it's going to help them. I just thought I'd get them out of there for a bit." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Picking up at 59-59 in the fifth set, the match continued on serve with no break points until Isner hit a backhand passing shot to finish the contest. The first-round match surpassed the 11-hour mark stretching over three days.

CFL The Toronto Argonauts dealt Brian Ramsay, a six-foot-seven, 298-pound offensive lineman, to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats for a 2011 fourth-round draft pick and conditional 2013 selection. Toronto also acquired Chad Owens, a receiver/return specialist from Montreal for a 2011 fourth-round pick.

CFL O.J. Santiago will have to wait to make his CFL debut. The former NFL tight end, making a comeback with the Montreal Alouettes, was placed on the one-game injured list Thursday by the CFL club as it made its final cuts to reach the 46-man roster limit.

ESPY Joannie Rochette's courageous performance at the Winter Olympics earned her an ESPY Award nomination. The figure skater from Ile Dupas, Que., who won the hearts of fans by winning a bronze medal just days after the death of her mother in Vancouver, was nominated in the Best Moment category.

Star-spangled boys earning rave reviews

For Canadians it's difficult to side with Americans when it comes to fun and games.

It's an even more problematic alliance at global sporting summits.

In the beloved passion of hockey, at the most critical moments, the men and women clad in uniforms bearing "Old Glory" present the greatest threat to those who don the Maple Leaf.

The same is true of the Olympics. The Americans have the most money and deepest talent pool, thus they tend to win the lion's share of medals. That reality turns out to be the only asterisk to stain the success column of a wildly successful home Games in Vancouver.

But things are different somehow at the World Cup.

In a tournament where the European masters of "football" consider themselves insiders and where the South American magicians from Brazil and Argentina rightly claim the "It's in our blood" card, the Yankees are the plucky upstarts.

And for that reason, they are winning rave reviews north of the border.

There's something attractive about the swashbuckling style of soccer the Americans play. They are rarely cagey.

Instead, they go for broke and somehow a little guy from Major League Soccer named Landon Donovan delivered them to the next round at the 11th hour against Algeria.

It was thrilling to watch — no, it was inspiring — and even better, the victory by the United States seemed like justice.

All along, the Americans had stuck to their guns in spite of those who conspired against them.

There were goals against mighty England that were said to be "gifted" and other goals rightfully scored that were taken away.

But the Americans didn't complain much. They chalked it up to the breaks of the game.

"You either whine and complain or you get on with things," figured coach Bob Bradley.

And so they worked harder and made their own victories instead of relying on others.

In a way, the Americans are outsiders at the World Cup. They come from a continent that is not considered to be the heartland of the sport.

In that respect they are very much like Canadians. But these American athletes are proving there's hope for those who live on the frontier of football.

The star-spangled boys of soccer are playing the role of underdogs and winning friends fast.

Salary the focus in pre-draft trade buzz

NHL With the hockey world descending on the Staples Center for the NHL draft, the league's next group of young stars won't be the only ones in the spotlight. An evolving landscape under the salary cap will be as well.

The signs of a changing system have been evident not only in the unusually high number of deals consummated ahead of Friday's first round, but also in the nature of the buzz still lingering.

One thing most of the names who are said to be available have in common is that they're carrying a significant contract — Boston Bruins forward Marc Savard (owed $30 million US over next six years) and goaltender Tim Thomas ($5 million cap hit for three years); Edmonton Oilers defenceman Sheldon Souray ($5.4 million cap hit for two years); Ottawa Senators forward Jason Spezza ($7 million cap hit for five years); and Dallas Stars forward Mike Ribeiro ($15 million, three years).

The list goes on and on.

A number of general managers have arrived in California with hopes of getting out from under the weight of cap-crippling contracts for either financial or competitive reasons.

"Managers seem to be a little more proactive this year," said Oilers GM Steve Tambellini, who holds the No. 1 selection in the draft.

"If there are players out there and teams that have a hardship with regards to the cap and you can solve a problem now, you'd rather do that than have to wait until July 1 ...

"If you can solve some of your issues now, most managers would like to do that and get it done."

Nothing hammered that point home more than seeing the Chicago Blackhawks ship Dustin Byfuglien, Ben Eager and Brent Sopel to Atlanta just two weeks after they helped the team win the Stanley Cup.

The work continued for GM Stan Bowman Thursday as he sent Colin Fraser to the Oilers — all in an effort to help get the team under the $59.4-million US cap next season.

No urgency for Burke

• Toronto Maple Leafs GM Brian Burke is never shy to pull the trigger on a deal but he won't necessarily do it here. As of Thursday afternoon, he had received four concrete trade offers for defenceman Tomas Kaberle (who has one year left at $4.25 million), but doesn't feel any urgency to get something done this weekend because he's not looking to get a draft pick back in return. The Leafs GM is on the lookout for a forward who can fill a scoring role and is willing to deal almost any player on the team. "When you finish 29th your list of untouchables should be pretty goddamn short," said Burke. "And it is."

Italy coach takes the blame

Marcello Lippi delivered a scathing verdict on his humiliated team Thursday after Italy was sent tumbling out of the World Cup by Slovakia, confessing he failed to motivate his aging squad that had played with fear.

After the defending champion was eliminated Thursday without winning a game in one of the tournament's easiest groups, the veteran Italy coach had to accept the truth that everyone else had seen.

"I take full responsibility," Lippi said after the 3-2 loss to Slovakia. "I thought this team could do more and that's what I prepared it to do, but when you see a team that plays with fear in their legs and in their hearts you understand that you have failed."

Italy's Fabio Quagliarella holds his face Thursday after a scuffle with Slovakia 'keeper Jan Mucha.

Save for the final 10 minutes against Slovakia, Italy's attack was confused and unable to hit the target. Lippi started all three group games with different formations but could never find the right formula.

"It's my fault," Lippi added. "I wasn't able to motivate the team. When something like this happens, it's always the leader's fault. I thought I played an important role when the team won, so it's only fair to have had just as big an impact in this failure."

Lippi led Italy to the 2006 title, when the Azzurri conceded only two goals over seven matches. This time they let in five goals in just three games, with 36-year-old captain Fabio Cannavaro responsible in part for the first two in the opening 1-1 draws with Paraguay and 78th-ranked New Zealand.

Nine players on the squad were 30 or older.

"It's everyone's fault, not just Lippi's. We've all got to be accountable," defender Gianluca Zambrotta said. "When you finish last in a group with New Zealand, Paraguay and Slovakia, with all respect to those teams, it's only right to go home."

"When you see a team that plays with fear in their legs and in their hearts you understand that you have failed."

Torrado said, "We have to be intelligent and not go loco, work together to able to cancel this individual skill."

Germany vs. England

Another Germany vs. England confrontation looms at the World Cup, and that will bring back memories of classic moments that include a disputed goal in the final, the English losing a 2-0 lead, and a dramatic penalty shootout win for the Germans.

The 2010 version of this famous matchup has England climbing out of a surprisingly poor spell of form to reach the last 16 with an encouragingly better performance in beating Slovenia 1-0 at Port Elizabeth Wednesday.

Fabio Capello's team finished second in Group C while the Germans got there by finishing on top of Group D with a 4-0 victory over Australia and a 1-0 triumph over Ghana, losing 1-0 in between to Serbia.

Brazil, Portugal promise fans a feast of skill

GROUP G PREVIEW

Portugal vs. Brazil

Even without one of world soccer's biggest stars, Portugal's World Cup clash with Brazil promises a feast of skilful, attacking soccer as both teams seek to win and avoid a possible round of 16 clash with Spain.

"It is going to be a very good game for us and for all football lovers and fans," Brazil coach Dunga said Thursday.

Not surprisingly, given the pedigree of both teams and their close cultural and historical ties, the match between Brazil and Portugal was one of the first World Cup matches to sell out. Brazil is ranked No. 1 in the world and Portugal is No. 3.

"The world's attention has been focused on this game, taking into account the quality of players both teams have," Portugal coach Carlos Queiroz said. "It's all about beautiful football, the quality of the game and creativity of our players."

The lustre was taken off slightly when midfielder Kaka was sent off in the 88th minute of Brazil's 3-1 win over Ivory Coast, meaning he will be banned from a showdown against Real Madrid teammate Cristiano Ronaldo in Durban.

12 Brazil has won 12 of the 18 games between the two countries but they have met just once at a World Cup, in 1966 when a Portugal team led by Eusebio beat Brazil.

Portugal midfielder Tiago said Brazil would not have a problem filling Kaka's boots.

"Brazil has a very strong squad," Tiago said. "They have other players who can step into that position."

NATUR-A: A BEVERAGE MADE FOR CHAMPIONS

When playing a sport we all focus on the importance of our training. But have you also considered how to feed and replenish your body's strength?

Follow the example of the champion Clara Hughes, who has been drinking soymilk for several years and still, at the age of 37, competes with athletes in their twenties!

To be well prepared or to recover after a workout, what could be better then Natur-a, one of the most popular soy beverages in Canada? Soymilk is in fact a great source of energy for the body, containing protein, essential vitamins, minerals and calcium in every glass. Free from cholesterol and preservatives, the Natur-a`s soymilk recipe has been proving it's worth since 1993!

Produced locally in Sainte-Hyacinthe and certified organic, Natur-a soymilk has no artificial ingredients and is also dairy-free. Being the only vegetable that is a complete protein, the soy bean is a great source of nutrition for athletes and a perfect one for vegetarians, vegans, and lactose-intolerant folks who still want to exercise and be athletic!

Available in a variety of flavors including unsweetened, original, vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry, Natur-a soymilk products all contain less sugar then milk, and that even includes the chocolate! So those with a sweet tooth can take pleasure in their glass of soy milk all the while staying healthy!

Low in fat, Natur-a is a perfect drink for world class athletes, many of whom, like Clara Hughes, drink it regularly. Every glass of Natur-a soymilk contains 45% of the recommended daily portion of vitamin D as well as 30% of your recommended daily calcium intake.

Since 2007, Health Canada has also recognized the benefits of soymilk, recommending that Canadians drink 2 to 4 glasses of soymilk per day. As rich as milk in essential nutrients this recommendation satisfies our daily calcium needs and helps maintain a balanced diet.

Nutrisoya's healthy focus meets its community commitment by yearly providing thousands of free portions of Natur-a soymilk to youth athletes playing soccer, hockey, ringette and cycling.

How can you use soymilk?

Everywhere you would use milk! Simply use the same proportions and replace with soymilk ; it works great in cakes, soups, crepes, sauces, puddings, muffins, and anywhere else you can think of! And of course you can always have a tall glass of soymilk every morning or after every workout!

Follow the advice and recipes of champion Clara Hughes on Nutrisoya's website at www.nutrisoy.com or www.naturaplus.ca.

One serving of Natur-a chocolate soymilk contains only 15 grams of sugar compared to 29 grams in a glass of regular chocolate milk, in other words that is 14 fewer grams of sugar in every glass!

Being Bella and loving it

Stewart still surprised by success of Twilight Saga

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News

Kristen Stewart has played Bella Swan, the young woman at the centre of the hugely successful Twilight franchise, in three films now. But she isn't tired of her vampire-loving alter-ego.

"It's super indulgent," she tells Metro. "Everybody always asks, 'It must be so exhausting, you must be so sick of her.' It's like, no. It's like writing a thesis as opposed to writing a paper."

It's a good thing she isn't sick of Bella yet, as Stewart has two more films to complete in the series. She spoke with Metro about splitting the last book into two parts, taking on On the Road and dealing with the madness of the MTV Movie Awards.

Q Are you excited about the chance to stretch the last book out over two movies?

A I'm excited. I feel like the fans are going to love it because we're going to have the time to tell the whole story. What happens when you try to cram such a long story into an hour and a half, the first things that are skimmed off the top are the things I love the most, which is details and the little things that make the characters who they are.

Q Did you anticipate how much of a phenomenon it's become, or could you not have predicted it?

A I don't think anybody could have. I've never seen anybody respond to a movie or a book the way I've seen some of these people respond. Initially, we thought that we had a cult hit. We thought that our little Twilight fan group is going to love our movie and make it somewhat successful, and maybe other people will catch on. Other people caught on like crazy. So initially it wasn't going to be this global phenomenon. It was going to be like a cult hit.

Q You're filming On the Road this summer.

A Yeah. It's finally getting made, which is really a miracle. I can't believe I'm this age at this time when it finally gets made. Somebody the other day was like, "There's really no plot." I was like, "What the f— are you talking about, there's no plot?" … I wrote a paper on that and told [director] Walter Salles about it in a meeting that I had with him a year and a half ago. I was like, "It's not very smart, but you should read it because you can tell that I really love it." I mean, I was in the eighth grade.

Q You guys had a good run at the MTV Awards, didn't you?

A I know. It feels weird, too. There are movies that are really good every year, and because of our fan base, they're just going to click away and we're going to win the things. I hope there's not too much resentment.

John C. Reilly in Cyrus.

Reilly's honest performance make Cyrus stand out

Cyrus
Director: Jay Duplass
Stars: Jonah Hill, John C. Reilly
Classification: 14A
Rating: ●●●●

DOROTHY ROBINSON
Metro World News

REVIEW The premise of Cyrus is a familiar one — man comes into single mom's life; single mom's son is not too happy. However, in Cyrus, the son turns out to be an off-kilter, 21-year-old wannabe new-age musician who has the social graces of a lobotomized sloth, meaning their version of this plot line might be most real — and hilariously creepy — yet.

John C. Reilly plays John, a lonely, middle-aged guy who, at the urging of his ex-wife, goes to a party to open up his romantic borders. There, he meets Molly (Marisa Tomei). They hit it off and, after a bit, John discovers Molly has a son named Cyrus (played with eerie ability by Jonah Hill); the two are beyond co-dependent on one another. Molly and Cyrus's Oedipal relationship is the perfect vehicle for laughs — it's just creepy enough to make Cyrus hip but not so much that it crosses a line that shall not be named.

But it's John C. Reilly who makes the film. Reilly is not the best looking guy but it's that realness that lends his performances honest credibility in Cyrus.

Grown Ups one lazy comedy

Grown Ups

Director: Dennis Dugan
Stars: Adam Sandler, Chris Rock, Kevin James
Classification: PG
Rating:

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Another year, another Adam Sandler movie. When this guy left Saturday Night Live in 1995 no one expected him to become the biggest comedy star in Hollywood, but somehow he's managed to make a career out of playing lovable losers that get the girl and solve some sort of high concept conundrum.

Grown Ups is Sandler's latest film and quite possibly his laziest yet. The concept is that Sandler and his real life buddies Chris Rock, Kevin James, David Spade, and Rob Schneider meet up for a reunion at a giant cottage.

The final product makes it clear that Sandler just wanted to hang out with these guys for a few months and they kind of made a movie when they weren't enjoying the vacation, but probably weren't paying much attention.

The plot (such as it is) sees Sandler and co. reuniting over the death of their former basketball coach. Even though they only spent a few years with the coach as teenagers, he insisted that they all attend his funeral. Weirdly, it seems as though the coach had no family, because soon they're in charge of dumping out the ashes and turn it into a weekend reunion.

Everyone has little problems when they arrive, but they don't matter that much and are all wrapped up in one painfully long weepy scene.

Other than that the movie is little more than a string of gags with the five friendly comedians trying to make each other laugh. Admittedly, there are some chuckles to be had, but the best laughs most likely took place when the cameras weren't rolling.

There's nothing wrong with lowbrow comedies that have no ambition beyond easy laughs, but Grown Ups is particularly lazy. Sandler's crude/sentimental shtick is getting old and it seems like he isn't even trying to tell stories anymore.

The good news is that all these comedians clearly had a good time making a movie last summer. The bad news is that no one else was invited to the party.

Not much bite in Revolution doc

Sounds Like a Revolution

Director: Summer Love, James Michener
Classification: 14A
Rating:

IAN GORMELY

REVIEW Protest music has probably been around since the first cavepeople picked up two rocks and started pounding out a beat. But while its usefulness at conveying opinions and ideas is as strong as ever, its social influence has significantly dwindled.

Sounds Like a Revolution, the new doc from Canadian filmmakers Summer Love and Jane Michener, argues that the post 9-11 world has produced more politically active artists than ever before, but the average person would never hear their music due to corporate and political interests trumping these artists right to speak their minds.

The film uses artist and expert interviews spliced with some great concert footage (Rage Against the Machine's a cappella rendition of Killing in the Name Of is especially sweet) to prove its point.

But interviews with been-around-protest-block artists like David Crosby and Pete Seeger far outweigh ones with relative nubes like Michael Franti or NOFX's Fat Mike. Their of-the-moment earnest political platitudes, although well intentioned, just can't trump the perspective offered by their older peers.

Perhaps Sounds Like a Revolution's biggest flaw is its singular focus on American bands protesting American policy. It ignores the thousands of bands around the world who are actively speaking out against governments willing to give far less leeway to dissent (i.e. none).

These bands flirt with imprisonment by just performing, whereas the bands featured in this doc wonder why they can't get played on the radio. For all its loud sabre-rattling, Sounds Like a Revolution has very little to say.

Rathbone rising with Last Airbender

Young actor joins the action in Shyamalan blockbuster

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Jackson Rathbone might be set to make tween girls and middle-aged woman squeal with delight next week in the new Twilight movie, but that's not the film that he's most excited to be a part of this summer.

Instead, Rathbone is looking forward to audiences seeing his role in the upcoming M. Night Shyamalan movie The Last Airbender, which is based on a popular TV series.

"My friends were always huge fans of the show and so was I." Rathbone told Metro. "While they weren't quite so excited when they learned that I was in Twilight, now I've got my guy friends thinking I'm kind of cool. So, it's nice to get some credibility. After all, I know kung fu now."

The film is based on the Nickelodeon animated series Avatar: The Last Airbender (part of the title was dropped for the movie for obvious reasons) about a world separated into distinct populations based on their ability to control one of the four elements.

When a young child is discovered who can control all of the elements, he is cherished because he could bring peace to the divided world. Rathbone plays a member of the water tribe who helps the young boy on his journey. It's not exactly the type of movie that you'd expect to see from the director of tense thrillers like Signs and The Sixth Sense, but Rathbone revealed that M. Night Shyamalan's daughters played a role in convincing the director to stretch.

The Last Airbender opens next week

Jackson Rathbone, left, stars in M. Night Shyamalan's The Last Airbender.

"Apparently his daughters were big fans of the show and it was their idea to do this movie. So he spread his wings and made a family film," said Rathbone before clarifying, "Well, not a family film in a sense that it's G-rated and cows are talking to pigs. This is a film with so much action that everyone's going to love it."

Much like the TV series that inspired it, the film will be filled with complex action sequences guaranteed to thrill audiences. It's a big part of what drew Rathbone to the project and he was thrilled to play an action hero.

"I probably did about 90 per cent of my fights and it was a blast," said Rathbone.

"I got to work with some of the premiere stuntmen and stuntwomen in the industry. I met guys who played James Bond back when it was Sean Connery and would jump out of airplanes and do the most amazing things. It was such an honour to be working with people of that calibre."

"I've got my guy friends thinking I'm kind of cool. So, it's nice to get some credibility. After all, I know kung fu now."

Coco Chanel and Igor Stravinsky

Director: Jan Kounen
Stars: Anna Mouglalis, Mads Mikkelsen
Classification: STC
Rating:

ANNE BRODIE
for Metro Canada

Legendary French designer Coco Chanel's romance with Russian composer Igor Stravinsky was a little known episode of her life that took place in 1920.

By then Chanel was an extremely successful businesswoman, couturiere, and visionary who changed the game perhaps more than any other modern designer.

She raised hemlines, removed decorative details from post-Victorian clothing and freed women literally and figuratively from corsets.

Stravinsky was an influential musician whose career had been uneven, to put it mildly.

Chanel was in the audience of the 1913 Paris premiere of Stravinsky's piece The Rite of Spring. It was controversial, considered "too modern."

The audience rioted, Stravinsky stormed out, devastated and angry, leaving Chanel amused and attracted to this bold Russian man.

They met again in 1920 after the death of her lover Boy Capel; he was married with several children he could barely support. Their attraction was immediate and he and his family accepted her invitation to live in her estate outside Paris.

There they began an affair which inspired him to work and where she developed her signature scent Chanel No. 5. But life there became unmanageable as Chanel made no attempt to hide the affair from his family.

The cinematography and art direction are stunning in every detail, lovingly caressing the "things" in Chanel's world — the clothing, architecture, design and décor of the homes, workplaces, and quotidian items from a long gone era of refinement.

Each door opens into a space of intense artistic focus — it's an extremely elegant world. Even the doors are works of art.

However the film tends to suffocate in its own gorgeousness and inability to express intimacy. It's beautiful at the expense of the protagonists and they become decorative objects, saying lines you can't hear over the loveliness.

Real life Chanel model Anna Mouglalis plays Coco, who we know was never as beautiful as she is, and Madds Mikkelsen is Stravinsky; they're also easy on the eyes but perpetually sombre, sad, and torn, and our eye tends to seek relief in the curtains.

Mads Mikkelsen and Anna Mouglalis star in Coco Chanel and Igor Stravinsky.

Some truth in the title

This Movie is Broken

Director: Bruce McDonald
Stars: Greg Calderone, Georgina Reilly
Classification: STC
Rating: ⊕⊕½

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

This Movie is Broken is concert film and romance rolled into one.

Few rock bands aim for ingratiation like the Toronto pop collective Broken Social Scene.

Their hoarse, sing-along choruses are the musical equivalent of a hearty, back-slapping hug. It's no surprise, then, that a movie inspired by their music would prove similarly eager to please. But Bruce McDonald's This Movie is Broken is at least as enervating as it is enchanting.

Originally conceived as a documentary about the band, the film plays at formal innovation by grafting concert footage of BSS' epic summer 2009 show at Harbourfront onto a wispy narrative involving a pair of best-friends-turned lovers.

The idea is that the music will serve as counterpoint to their budding romance, but McDonald, whose greatest strength as a director is a sense of rhythm, unfortunately never locates the right back-and-forth groove.

The scenes in which amorous slacker Bruno (Greg Calderone) and his longtime crush Caroline (Georgina Reilly) actually arrive at the concert are impressive technically, with cameras snaking through a real and mostly oblivious crowd. And whatever one's feelings about Broken Social Scene's music, their performance is undeniably intense.

The energy of these sequences only throws the flimsiness of the dramatic material into sharper relief.

McDonald's desire to experiment with his storytelling is admirable, but This Movie Is Broken never quite pulls itself together.

Couples on the run

InFocus

Richard Crouse

metronews.ca/infocus

The road trip is part of the American psyche dating back to the young men (and women) who took Horace Greeley's famous advice —"Go west young man!"— to heart and left the east for the frontier.

Hollywood saw the allure early on, recognizing that road movies offer opportunities to inject exciting secondary characters and interesting scenery into stories each time the leads stop in a new town. Add to that the sexy appeal of two people running for their lives and you have a new genre — the fugitive couple movie.

Whether it is the doomed Henry Fonda and Sylvia Sydney on the lam in 1937s You Only Live Once or Tom Cruise and Cameron Diaz's worldwide trek in this weekend's Knight and Day, the idea of runaways on the open road has been irresistible to filmmakers.

One early fugitive road movie is Persons in Hiding, a nasty 1939 film based on J. Edgar Hoover's best-selling book of the same name. J. Carrol Naish stars as a small-time hood on the run with Dorothy Bronson (Patricia Morison).

Together they rob banks and even kidnap a hapless stranger all to appease Ms. Bronson's appetite for champagne and furs. Of course, this being based on Hoover's book, the pair isn't mythologized à la Bonnie and Clyde. No, the heroes here are the FBI who use their "infallible" methods to bring the couple to justice.

Better known is The Getaway, Sam Peckinpah's violent love letter to criminal behaviour. Based on a 1959 pulp novel by Jim Thompson, it stars Steve McQueen as a cocky safecracker who hits the road with Ali MacGraw following a botched holdup.

Panned on its original release — Roger Ebert called it "a big, glossy, impersonal mechanical toy" — it was a box office success, partly because of the ruckus the tabloids made when MacGraw left her husband, producer Robert Evans, for McQueen during production.

More recently crime and scandal were at the heart of Natural Born Killers, a satire of media sensationalism and America's love affair with violence. Woody Harrelson and Juliette Lewis play married murderers — "the best thing to happen to mass murder since Manson" — on a cross country killing spree.

Richard Crouse's Movie Show can be seen every Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on the E! Channel; mrchaos33@hotmail.com.

Toy Story 3

●●●●½

REVIEW The folks at Pixar have returned to the characters of their first movie, now 15 years past, and come up with an inspired, intelligent and entertaining film expertly straddling the line between kids and adults entertainment. The latest instalment finds Woody (Tom Hanks), Buzz Lightyear (Tim Allen) and the rest of the familiar toys of the first two films fretting over their owner Andy's impending departure to college. After becoming convinced they're headed for the trash heap, the toys mount an escape that lands them in the apparent Shangri-La of a local day-care centre, where the toy world is overseen by a deceivingly cuddly old teddy bear (Ned Beatty). While kids will certainly enjoy the movie, don't be surprised to find most of the adult audience needing tissues. The visuals are spectacular enough without 3-D, and the technology doesn't add enough to warrant the higher ticket price.

The Karate Kid

●●●½

REVIEW To anyone alive in the 1980s, the Karate Kid legend is a familiar one. In this reboot, Jaden Smith (son of Will and Jada) stars in the role Ralph Macchio made a Reagan era icon. The story's been freshened by a move to Beijing but the filmmakers wisely kept the underdog coming-of-age tale front and centre. Smith is the film's centrepiece. He's clearly still a novice, but has inherited the best bits of his mother and father's collective gene pools (he got his mother's ears! Yay!) and has charisma to burn. He's ably assisted by co-star Jackie Chan, who brings warmth and personality to Mr. Han.

Get Him to the Greek

●●●½

REVIEW Just as comedy sage Judd Apatow made stars out of unlikely actors Seth Rogen and Jason Segel with respective hits, Get Him to the Greek aims to turn Russell Brand and plumpy Jonah Hill into Hollywood's latest A-listers. And it may just do it. A spin-off to the 2008 Apatow-produced hit Forgetting Sarah Marshall, this tale about a record executive hopeful named Aaron (Hill) and his lascivious, out-of-control rock 'n' roll charge (Brand, reviving Marshall's Aldous Snow character) anchors gross-out gags by giving the bedlam a heart.

Prince of Persia: The Sands of Time

REVIEW If anyone should see Prince of Persia: The Sands of Time, it's the folks behind the recent Clash of the Titans remake. In it they'd find a prime example of what their effects-heavy swords-and-sandals adventure was missing: A sense of fun. In his first foray into action hero territory, Jake Gyllenhaal digs into the role of adopted Persian royal Dastan with gusto, working just as hard at his character's rakish charm as he does at the building-leaping stunt work.

Douglas on his own

Veteran star gets introspective in comic Solitary Man

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

Michael Douglas has cut his teeth in Hollywood mainly playing wealthy, self-obsessed megalomaniacs — and this summer he's back at it again.

Already, the 65-year-old actor is building anticipation for his return to the role that earned him an Academy Award — the greed-stricken businessman Gordon Gekko. But while the September release of Wall Street: Money Never Sleeps will amass no shortage of media attention, its perhaps Douglas' subtle new comic-drama Solitary Man that more accurately depicts where the star is in his own life.

"It's a bit (introspective)," admitted Douglas while promoting the film. "I just thought (filmmakers) Brian Koppelman and Dave Levien's script was so good and just when people have to sort of face mortality — I thought this was a very dark comedy way of approaching it and how people reach out in different ways."

Michael Douglas stars in Solitary Man.

Solitary Man opens next Friday

In the movie, Douglas plays Ben Kalmen, a Tri-State automobile tycoon whose business suddenly collapses sending the personable divorcé into a midlife crisis. Through a set of circumstances, he ends up loitering around an upstate university, hitting on young students and reuniting with an old college roommate played by Danny DeVito.

"I was happy when I heard they were considering him as one of my oldest buddies in the film," said Douglas of his real-life pal. "Danny and I started out together in summer theatre and then were roommates together and have continued our friendship. It's just always easier when you're with someone you know and are friends and acting and don't have to go through all that formality of introducing yourself and this or that. I understand more and more why people like to work together."

But DeVito wasn't the only person Douglas was happy to act alongside. As he gets older, it's the exposure to young talent that perhaps surprises and keeps the veteran thespian fresh.

Filming Wall Street, he was just as impressed by English Oscar-nominee Carey Mulligan (An Education) as he was with Solitary Man co-star Imogen Poots — another young Brit.

"It's sort of wild," laughed Douglas. "To think that you can't find a young American girl to play an upscale New York daughter."

Sarah Harmer holds her fire on new album

GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM
for Metro Canada

For the past five years, Juno-winning singer-songwriter Sarah Harmer has been at the centre of a fight to block a proposed gravel quarry on a picturesque piece of the Niagara Escarpment.

Five years is a long time between albums in the pop music world.

Many artists would have released at least two studio CDs during that time, maybe a DVD and a live album as well.

We can excuse Sarah Harmer's long break between albums, though. She's been preoccupied.

For the past five years, Harmer has been at the centre of a fight to block a proposed gravel quarry on a picturesque piece of the Niagara Escarpment near her childhood home in rural north Burlington, Ont.

The Juno-winning singer-songwriter's time has been taken up with raising funds, hiring consultants, lobbying politicians, studying scientific reports and prepping for a seemingly endless series of land-use hearings.

"It's definitely an album based around human emotions, experiences and relationships from a personal perspective."
Sarah Harmer

If anything, it's surprising that she found any time at all to write and record her new CD, Oh Little Fire, which was released this week.

"Yeah, it was a long time coming," Harmer agrees in an interview from her home near Kingston. "But perspective is pretty important when it comes to time."

Harmer admits it wasn't easy to pick up songs that, in some cases, she had started years earlier.

"I started a few of them a long time ago," she explains. "I'd have an idea for a song — a melody, a verse, a little bit of sentiment — to get back to it and make something complete, that took a while."

Her previous album, I'm a Mountain, was released in 2005 shortly after she had formed the environmental group PERL (Protecting Escarpment Rural Land) to fight the quarry proposal. It was an acoustic record with a country tinge and filled with the politics of the environment. It made the short list for the Polaris Music Prize for top Canadian album. An accompanying DVD won a Juno award.

Politics is largely absent from the songs of Oh Little Fire. One track, Washington, is about her regret at not travelling to the U.S. capital to for President Barack Obama's inauguration.

Songs about the environment, however, are noticeably lacking.

"No, there aren't any overt land-use issues commented on," she laughs. "It's definitely an album based around human emotions, experiences and relationships from a personal perspective."

To help guide her transition back to the recording studio, Harmer reached out to old friend and producer Gavin Brown. Brown, best known for his work with rock bands like Billy Talent, had played drums on Harmer's 2000 breakthrough album You Were Here.

Brown's influence brought electric guitars and keyboards back into the mix. Only one track — Silverado, sung with the help of alt-country queen Neko Case — contains the rootsy feel of I'm A Mountain.

"(Brown) was a huge part of making this record," she says. "He really kicked it in for me. ... I had all these songs in my mind for a long time. He helped me express them."

Eminem puts the art back into album covers

SoundCheck

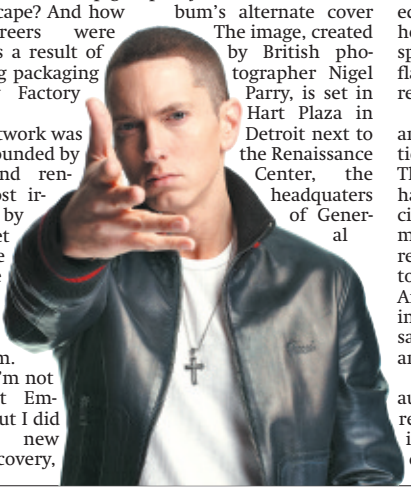
There was a time when I had beautiful handwriting, a lovely cursive script with distinctive jaunty flourishes with the uppercase "A" and the lowercase "g" and "j." But no more. Keyboards — first an IBM Selectric and then a computer — completely destroyed my ability to write in longhand.

Today, I'd have better luck reading ancient Sumerian runic symbols than anything I might have written down in the last 10 minutes. The only way I can be remotely legible is to jot down everything in ALL CAPS.

This is kind of what happened to album artwork. In the old days, LP offered a 12-by-12 pallet (double that if you include the back) that could be a source of mystic, wonder and legend: the man with the sticks on Led Zeppelin IV; Paul McCartney barefoot and out of step on Abbey Road; the swimming baby of Nevermind. Who knows how many albums were sold on the strength of a Roger Dean painting or a surreal Hipignosis landscape? And how many careers were launched as a result of the amazing packaging created by Factory Records?

Album artwork was mortally wounded by the CD and rendered almost irrelevant by the MP3. Yet there are still those who believe in its power — like Eminem.



Frankly, I'm not the biggest Eminem fan, but I did buy his new record, Recovery, partly because of the album's alternate cover The image, created by British photographer Nigel Parry, is set in Hart Plaza in Detroit next to the Renaissance Center, the headquaters of General Motors. The place is deserted save for Eminem in his hermetically sealed Perspex box with his couch, flat screen TV and some reading material.

There are several layers and multiple interpretations within this shot. There's Em's stints in rehab — prompted by an accidentally overdose of methadone — where he recovered from addictions to Vicodin, Valium and Ambien. But because he's in a box, what does that say about his state of mind and self-perception?

There's Detroit and the auto industry's wished-for recovery and, dare we say it, renaissance after decades of decline. But why is the plaza deserted?

Before you hear a single note or rhyme, Recovery is mysterious, disturbing and thought-provoking — all thanks to the artwork. And isn't that great to see for a change?

Stars' ghostly new sound

The Five Ghosts is the new album from Canadian indie act Stars.

GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM
for Metro Canada

Those twin little girls who hang out in the halls of Stanley Kubrick's horror classic The Shining, have a lot in common with the Stars' new CD The Five Ghosts.

On the outside, they're all cute ribbons and curls. But on the inside, they're lost souls, crying out in agony from the depths of the netherworld.

"That's a huge influence on my life, that movie, The Shining," says Stars' founder Torquil Campbell. "I think we've always had that in our music."

Campbell is talking about the eerie pop-synth mix that comes about when Stars' lead singer Amy Millan's childlike voice meets the ghoulish nature of new songs like Dead Hearts, Winter Bones and I Died So I Could Haunt You.

"That's always something we've tried to do in the songs," Campbell explains, "To take subject matter that was sort of the opposite of the music you were hearing.

"So you receive the music in one way and then you receive the story within the music in another way. That creates the tension and unease between the two things. I think the best pop music is about that tension, achieving a kind of halfway point between joy and darkness."

Campbell says the dark nature of the material also came honestly to the band's five members who wrote the 11 new tracks collectively.

"Definitely ghosts, the loss of people, death, all those things were a part of this year for all of us. We had a tough year that way. My dad passed away and people were born (Campbell and his wife have a baby daughter). And Chris (Seligman, keyboardist) had this bizarre episode in Vancouver of being haunted and literally having to leave his apartment in the middle of the night.

"So right from the get-go there was this something pointing us toward talking about this stuff. It kind of came upon us. It wasn't something that we decided to do."

"The best pop music is about ... achieving a kind of halfway point between joy and darkness." Torquil Cambell

Lee gets a badge in his newest TV show

HEIDI PATALANO
Metro World News

Jason Lee seems like a man who prefers to stay busy. Having just appeared on Live with Regis and Kelly moments before, Lee talks to us from a car on his way to the airport so that he can return to shooting his new TNT cop drama Memphis Beat later in the afternoon.

And Lee's last TV hit, My Name Is Earl, was barely deceased before he reappeared in this somewhat less-quirky role as Dwight Hendricks, a southern police detective who is also an Elvis impersonator.

"(Earl was) more goofing off and having a good time doing that and [Dwight] is having a good time taking a completely different approach, which is a little bit more thoughtful," Lee explains about the new role. "It really became my objective to make this guy real whereas with Earl, it was a little more fantastical."

Jason Lee stars in the new TNT show Memphis Beat.

Memphis Beat isn't a usual gritty crime drama.

"It's certainly more interesting when you can be as invested in the characters as you are in whatever the case is or who the bad guy is and how they find them," Lee says. "I think it's a character thing."

Lee believes the setting of the show makes in unique.

"The way things work down there as opposed to anywhere else in the country and the pride that people have — it makes the show so much more interesting," he said.

Oscars might get moved up to January

Academy Awards organizers are talking about moving up the date of the show, possibly as early as January. A firm date of Feb. 27 already has been set for next year's 83rd Oscars, so 2012 is the earliest any change would take effect. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Say goodbye to As the World Turns

You can view the clip on YouTube: Dr. Bob Hughes lunching with a fellow doctor in a scene aired live on As the World Turns the afternoon of Nov. 22, 1963.

"Shall we get a menu?" Hughes says to his dining companion. "Waiter! I'd like to order. I'm kind of hungry."

That scene was the last the TV audience would see of As the World Turns that day as CBS News seized the schedule for continuous coverage of President John Kennedy's assassination.

The young, dark-headed actor who played Dr. Bob, as well as the rest of the cast, completed the show shielded from both the fact of its pre-emption and the terrible reason why.

Only after the episode's final fade-out did they learn of the tragedy, as the actor portraying Dr. Bob, Don Hastings, recalled one day last week.

Now 76 and handsomely silver-haired, Hastings was in his dressing room between scenes at the Brooklyn studio the series has called home the past decade. He was still playing Dr. Bob — lately the head of Oakdale Memorial Hospital and, as always, endowed with a perfect bedside manner — just a few months shy of 50 years after landing the part.

KATHY WILLENS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As the World Turns actor Don Hastings, 76, has portrayed Dr. Bob in the soap opera for nearly 50 years.

But Hastings won't get to reach his half-century milestone in October. On Sept. 17, TV's oldest daytime drama will fold.

On Wednesday, ATWT wrapped production forever.

"It's been a job and a home and friendships for 50 years," said Hastings, an avuncular, era-spanning presence as he pondered the series' end. "I don't think it's hit me yet."

The summer after CBS' Guiding Light was cut down after 72 years on radio and then television, the doomsday scenario that has plagued soaps for decades has now claimed ATWT.

ABC's General Hospital, which premiered in April 1963, will now inherit the title as TV's oldest soap. But who knows for how long?

Used to be, at any given time there were a dozen or more daytime dramas on the networks. Soon there will be only six.

Jazz Fest promises mix of fresh and established performers

MAUREEN LITTLEJOHN
for Metro Canada

Starting this Friday the roof is likely to be blown off a few downtown venues... in a good way.

Edging in on the G20's media attention, the TD Toronto Jazz Festival runs today until July 4 with stellar headliners such as Herbie Hancock, Maceo Parker, Harry Connick Jr., Dave Brubeck, Keith Jarrett and Taj Mahal.

Legendary powerhouse vocalist Chaka Khan electrifies the stage at Yonge-Dundas Square with a free show on the final Saturday along with Grammy Award winner Macy Gray. "I'll be there with my band and we'll be doin' the hell out of it. I love what I do and it'll be great," said Khan over the phone from Amsterdam.

"There's a ton of choice this year. Something for everyone," notes Josh Grossman, the festival's artistic director.

The lineup includes a mix of fresh and established performers, from emotive songstress Martha Wainwright who performs the music of Edith Piaf at the Great Hall, to teen phenom Nikki Yanovsky at Koerner Hall, to R&B icon Mavis Staples plus the Allen Toussaint Band at the Toronto Star Stage in Nathan Philips Square. Roy Hargrove, David Sanborn, Maceo Parker, Stanley Clarke, Angelique Kidjo and John Scofield are a few other big name crowd-pleasers.

Daily free shows at noon and 5 p.m. at Nathan Philips Square include talents such as Jim Galloway, Barry Elmes and Buck 65.

Edgy avant-garde music is represented as well. "We've brought back the Next Wave series due to a strong demand from the local jazz community," Grossman explains. The series is at the Music Gallery and includes trumpeter Eric Boeren's quartet.

BET Awards branch out

DARREN CALABRESE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The BET Awards are adding some youth to the mix with Canadian artists such as Justin Bieber and Drake, seen here at the MMVAs.

The BET Awards are in an all-embracing mood.

Tween heartthrob Justin Bieber and Disney star Selena Gomez are among the nominees, three brand-new artists will debut on the show, and for the first time in its 10-year history, the BET Awards will begin with a big musical number that may remind viewers of Glee.

"This is the biggest show we've ever done," said Stephen Hill, BET's president of music programming and specials. "All I can say is you're going to want to tune in for Queen Latifah's opening."

The coy executive producer wouldn't confirm the "Glee" connection, but praised host Latifah's varied skills: "She acts, sings, raps — and might be taking tap lessons."

"All I can say is you're going to want to tune in for Queen Latifah's opening."
BET's Stephen Hill

Sunday's show also marks Kanye West's first televised appearance since Taylor-Gate at last year's MTV Video Music Awards, when the rapper swiped the microphone from stunned "Best Female Video" winner Taylor Swift and declared that Beyoncé should have won the award. He's been keeping a low profile since the onslaught of bad publicity almost a year ago.

"Everybody wants to see what Kanye's doing," Hill said. "I saw him in March and he said, 'I'm staying out of sight and I'm going to come back strong at the BET Awards.'"

Also making a comeback Sunday is T.I., in his first televised performance since the 29-year-old rapper was released from prison in December.

John Legend, who will receive BET's humanitarian award, said he's thrilled to participate in the show again, and especially honoured to be recognized.

Legend said his charitable work through the Show Me campaign, which aims to eradicate poverty through education and health care, "has never been about awards, but about making a real difference in people's lives."

"Hopefully this award will inspire others to do the same," Legend said.

Prince will also be honoured Sunday with BET's lifetime achievement award.

"That Prince is going to allow us to celebrate him, we're humbled," Hill said. Expect a musical tribute to the prolific artist.

He said that Sunday's BET Awards have been energized by the inclusion of young artists such as Drake and Nicki Minaj, and Gomez and Bieber, who are not black and not considered urban artists.

"It's always great to have the energy of that artist who makes 14- to 18-year-old girls lose their minds," he said. "Bieber is … generating this type of electricity, and it really crosses all lines." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ellis brings readers back to Zero

DOROTHY ROBINSON
Metro World News

For Bret Easton Ellis, it turns out that you can go home again. Twenty-five years after he burst onto the literary scene with Less Than Zero, a novel that encompassed the bleak ennui of an '80s Los Angeles.

Ellis has returned to Zero's cast of characters in the just-released sequel, Imperial Bedrooms.

Q Nice author photo! It seems to sum up your L.A. life.

A Every single author photo I have has been carefully choreographed. I wanted this one to look older and douchier than that louche young man in a loosened tie I took when I was 21 for Less Than Zero. This one took two days to pull off.

Q Why the title Imperial Bedrooms?

A When I first began thinking about the book and the characters of Less Than Zero and the sexual exploitation that happens, I thought of the Elvis Costello song. It's really as simple as that.

Charlottetown becomes a circus

SummerFest attracts Cirque du Soleil for Canada Day weekend

Cirque du soleil is headlining Charlottetown's SummerFest this year.

The annual event focuses on the Canada Day weekend and Cirque is performing June 30, July 2 and July 4. Other acts at the family friendly event include the Doodle Bops, the Lumberjack show and plenty of buskers.

Day passes cost $40 for adults and $20 for children.

For a free history lesson, families can stop by Province House in Charlottetown. Each evening at dusk, the history of Birthplace of Canada is projected in colour against the historic building.

Although not free, another attraction is the Elmira Railway Museum.

Open summers only, the museum offers its own miniature railway tour and the whole family can visit the museum for $11 and ride the railway for $13.50.

And what would a visit to the Island be without Anne of Green Gables? Anne & Gilbert The Musical, based on the very popular book series, opens June 15 and runs to Sept 26.

Mariah sued for pooch payment

I'M SORRY $30,000?! WAS SHE FEEDING THEM CAVIAR WHILE GIVING THEM INSIDER TRADING TIPS? Mariah Carey is in the doghouse with a veterinarian who says the pop superstar hasn't paid nearly $30,000 in bills for three of her prized pooches.

Veterinarian Cindy Bressler sued Carey on Wednesday in a Manhattan state court.

Bressler provided "extraordinary services" for the Jack Russell terriers — Cha-Cha, Dolomite and JJ — but the Grammy Award-winning singer paid only about $8,200 of the roughly $37,800 in charges, the lawsuit says. The bills cover a little more than a month of care.

Bressler's lawyer, Michael C. Posner, declined to elaborate on the dogs' treatment. Bressler, whose website notes that she makes house calls in New York City and the Hamptons and caters to "prominent New Yorkers and celebrity clients," didn't immediately respond to an email message seeking comment.

Russell Brand turns to Noel Gallagher for marriage advice

WHICH IS LIKE TURNING TO DINA LOHAN FOR PARENTING ADVICE Russell Brand is planning to live out his Robin Hood fantasies for his upcoming bachelor party. "I'll do adventurous things and activities. My friend who is my best man says we're going to go white-water rafting and shoot arrows," Brand says on Britain's Capital Breakfast Show radio program. "We'll be like merry men. Perhaps we'll become outlaws, bandits for a while." Brand also admits he's been turning to famous pals — like Oasis' Noel Gallagher — for advice on keeping future wife Katy Perry happy. "I asked Noel how to get by in a relationship and he said, 'Just say yes to everything they say,'" Brand says. "It works, I've been using that system and it's working well."

Jackson family values

VALUE #1: CHILDHOOD? THERE IS NO CHILDHOOD IN THIS HOUSE! NOW GET BACK TO WORK Michael Jackson's three children reportedly have a new activity in their schedules: going door-to-door as Jehovah's Witnesses, according to Fox News. Now that they are under the care of the grandmother, Katherine Jackson, Prince, Paris and Blanket Jackson are being encouraged to take part in the family's faith, a big part of which is evangelizing door-to-door. "Growing up, Michael did it, too. It's an important part of their faith," a source says. "Nobody even seems to know it is them. I am sure it is something Katherine would encourage. Becoming a Jehovah's Witness was something she wanted for all her kids."
